Counselor

Megan Robleski - Physican Assistant

Megan was a counselor prior to becoming a Physician Assistant. We were so glad to have her back once she completed her education! Her easy smile and sweet disposition bring joy to everyone around her!

How did you get involved in CHAMP Camp? I heard about CHAMP Camp from Dr. Chuck while shadowing him at Riley Children's Hospital during my undergrad. He quickly learned about my love for children, and he told me, "You have to go to CHAMP Camp." He invited me to go fishing with the kids at CHAMP Camp that summer, and I was back at camp the year after as a counselor!

You had to take a break from camp while you were in school to become a Physician Assistant. What brought you back after that break? CHAMP Camp is the most wholesome, encouraging, and inclusive community. I'm grateful to be able to spend a week loving the bravest kids. One of my favorite parts is cheering them on while they do activities they only experience at camp or have never even done before.

What is your favorite memory from CHAMP Camp? Some of my favorite memories from CHAMP Camp are watching the kids open up and blossom throughout the week and develop friendships with the other campers. Working with the younger girls this past year, a few of the first time campers arrived timid, but each day, more of their personalities came out, and by the end of camp, we knew their silly, sassy, goofy personalities so well.

How does your week at camp impact the rest of your year?
CHAMP Camp is always a time of reset for the remainder of the year and serves as a reminder for the importance of living for others and finding joy in every day.

Why should someone in your profession consider becoming a counselor at CHAMP Camp? You won't regret taking a week off of work to be at camp. There is nothing better than being able to aid in providing a safe space for these campers to get away and experience overnight camp and simply be a kid.

Megan brings a long love of CHAMP Camp and medical expertise!
